

Synchronization of Data

SalesNotes synchronizes with remote users and other servers by exchanging “merge” files between the systems. These files contain all the changes to the data since the last synchronization and following the exchange are used to update the database on each system. If the sync is done regularly these files are very small and the process is usually very rapid. The sync can take place by three methods:

1. Direct link to the server by dialup
2. Direct link to the Network
3. Link via an ftp site using the Internet
